

20-foot photovoltaic container for water treatment plants

Overview

Water and energy are intimately related, as water is required for energy applications and energy is required for water-based technologies. Two large groups of photovoltaic adoptions have been identified.

Can wastewater treatment plants be used for solar PV projects?

The potential of using wastewater treatment plants for solar PV projects is found to be economically viable in twenty six urban sites of China. Self consumption of the PV power by the waste water treatment plant and solar radiation potential of the plant plays an effective role in deciding the economic viability of this initiative.

How can a containerized water treatment system help a large-scale reverse osmosis plant?

Take the difficulty out of large-scale reverse osmosis plants with containerized water treatment systems. By choosing pre-designed, module-sized plants, fully assembled in standard 20-ft and 40-ft containers with the option for a 10-ft as well, the complexity and construction of building water purification systems are no longer necessary.

What is containerization of a water treatment plant?

Containers installed on site Containerization of a water treatment plant does not only include the supply of a container, it includes the complete installation of the plant: Cabling and wiring of pumps and instrumentation inside the container to main control cabinet. We can deliver our systems in insulated (20 or 40 ft) containers.

Where are solar PV wastewater treatment plants located?

Most of the solar PV adopted wastewater treatment plants are located in California, USA. For wastewater treatment plant capacity of above 5 Million Gallons per day inflow, around 8–30% of its energy demand is met by solar PV modules.
