Overview

---

What is Mozambique's energy potential?

The country has one of the largest potentials in Africa, largely thanks to the mighty Zambezi River, which boasts a projected production capacity of 20 GW. More than half of this potential is in Mozambique. Existing power plants such as Hidroelétrica de Cahora Bassa (HCB) contribute significantly to the country's energy production.

Does Mozambique need a hybrid solar-wind system?

This paper presents a comprehensive analysis of Mozambique's energy transition, focusing on integrating a hybrid solar-wind system with green hydrogen storage. It discusses Mozambique's renewable energy potential, particularly in solar and wind, and the country's efforts to meet increasing energy demands sustainably.

How can Mozambique achieve its electrification goal?

A power mix that takes advantage of its vast energy resources in a cost-effective way and provides a solid foundation for the long-term development of its power system. The use of proven power generation technologies coupled with a well-structured and realistic data-driven plan will enable Mozambique to reach its electrification goal.

What is EDM doing in Mozambique?

EDM and Mozambique support the development of renewable energy projects, having launched public tenders for solar and wind projects, the country is also exploring battery storage solutions. The largest power generation plant in the country is the Cahora Bassa hydro dam, operated by the government owned Hidroelétrica de Cahora Bassa (HCB).
